GREETINGS

The RBMS newsletter baton has been passed to a new editor. I would like to thank Lauren Brown for his hard work and perseverance over the last few years. Now that the newsletter is an established serial publication the RBMS Executive Committee has decided that the editorship should be a two year renewable position; future editors will be nominated by the Publications Committee and approved by the Executive Committee. It is the editorial policy of this newsletter to first report RBMS Section news, providing news of the wider national and international rare book community as space allows. I hope all will participate in the production of the newsletter by sending me suggestions for its improvement as well as alerting me to relevant news items. Looking forward to hearing from you - Karen.

RBMS PREPARES FOR SAN ANTONIO

Another busy agenda has been planned for RBMS's committees at ALA's Midwinter Meeting, to be held in San Antonio this January. All those interested in becoming involved in these activities are encouraged to attend.

The Standards Committee (Chair: John B. Thomas III, Humanities Research Center, Austin) is busy with projects of its own and reviewing standards developed by other sections and committees. Revised editions of its relator terms thesaurus and genre terms thesaurus appeared in the October 1987 C & RL News. Its binding thesaurus is expected to be published by the end of the year. Its paper thesaurus, type thesaurus, and provenance thesaurus are all under review by either ACRL or the committee. All of these are expected to appear in either C & RL News or as separate publications soon. The Nominating Committee (Chair: Anna Lou Ashby, Pierpont Morgan Library) will be meeting in January to discuss the upcoming April elections. The Borrowing for Exhibitions Committee (Chair: Ellen Dunlap, Rosenbach Museum) awaits responses to its article, "Borrowing of Special Collections Materials for Exhibitions," which was in RBML's spring issue, both from a general audience and the Standards Committee; the latter is producing formal guidelines based on that article. A seminar was held in San Francisco this summer addressing this issue. In January the Continuing Education Committee (Chair: Barbara Paulson, Columbia University) will be working on the seminars suggested for the Preconference in July in New Orleans. The 1989 Conference Planning Committee (Chair: William Joyce, Princeton) will meet in January to discuss the possibility of having an RBMS conference in early September 1989 in Cambridge, England; also under discussion will be the regularly scheduled Preconference before ALA's Annual Conference, to be held in Dallas in June of 1989. The Exhibition Catalogue Awards Committee (Chair: Sally Leach, Humanities Research Center) has planned two meetings for January to choose award winners for 1988. Three catalogs will be chosen from over forty submissions for the three categories, expensive, moderately expensive, and inexpensive. The committee will also discuss the publication of checklists of previous entries for both reference and ordering purposes. The Publications Committee (Chair: James Green, Library Company of Philadelphia) is still working on the membership directory; finding a mechanism for obtaining the necessary data and a way in which to make the directory self-supporting are the two issues of most concern at this point.  (Along this line, RBMS members are asked to fill out their ALA membership forms completely, including telephone numbers, as these forms may be used in the compilation of a directory.)  An ad-hoc committee to explore the possibilities of an policy and procedures/orientation manual has been established (Chair: Donald Farren, University of Maryland) and will meet for the first time in January to discuss scope and whether the two should be separate publications or integrated. The Preconference Planning Manual has been reviewed by ALA; maintenance of this manual will remain with the Publications Committee with regular input from Past Chairs. Consideration is being given to publishing a directory of resources to teach the history of the book. The Security Committee (Chair: William A. Moffett, Oberlin) and the Legislative Information Committee (Chair: William B. Keller, George Washington University) will be working in San Antonio on legislation for library thefts. There will be a program in New Orleans this summer on insider thefts and an ad-hoc committee with Donald Farren as Chair will meet in January to organize it. The Security Committee guidelines have been revised and will be reviewed by the Standards Committee in January. The Legislative Information Committee is drafting a guide addressing the issues raised by its report on the 1984 tax revisions. RBMS will be co-sponsoring, with William Keller as its representative, an ACRL program planned for the 1988 ALA Conference entitled "Information Access: Issues and Action." The Conservators' Collations Committee (Chair: Terry Belanger, Columbia University) will be reviewing its report for conservators and curators in January. The Literary Rights Committee (Chair: Cathy Henderson, Humanities Research Center) will discuss the possibility of creating a national data-base of American literary rights and copyright holders. The Manuscripts and Other Formats Discussion Group (Chair: Bob E. Blesse, University of Nevada/Reno) is planning to conduct a survey on the security of manuscripts and other formats in American repositories. Bob Blesse represented RBMS at the Society of American Archivists (SAA) Annual Conference in New York in September, where RBMS hosted an open house to encourage more dialogue between the two organizations; more than forty people attended. At SAA he also presented for review the ACRL Guidelines for Manuscripts and Archives, which had previously been reviewed by the Standards Committee and the manuscript group. The January meeting of the Curators and Conservators Discussion Group (Chair: Cathy Henderson) will focus on collational formulas used by conservators when taking apart printed books. Also under discussion is the Conservators' Collations Committee's report previously mentioned. Cathy gave a talk for the Book and Paper Group of the American Institute for Conservation (AIC) last May in Vancouver about the activities of the RBMS conservators' groups. The Committee for the Development of Transfer Guidelines (Chair: Samuel Streit, Brown University), now dissolved, saw publication of its Guidelines in the September 1987 C & RL News.

LIASON NEWS

A joint ALA committee of RBMS and GODORT (Government Documents Round Table) met for the first time in San Francisco with Nora Quinlan (University of Colorado/Boulder) as liason. MAGERT (Maps & Geography Round Table) is joining this committee in January. The committee's first project is the creation of a questionnaire on institutional holdings of government documents which will be distributed to RBMS members.

In San Francisco, the Joint ALA/SAA Committee (Joan Friedman, RBMS liason) discussed the shared concern for professional education and standards. Relevant RBMS standards are being read by the committee and a session was held at the SAA Conference entitled "MLS & Employment: Perspectives from the Accreditation Teams, Conservators & Rare Books/Manuscripts Fields" addressing educational issues.

Michael Ryan (Stanford University) has been named the new liason to the Western European Specialists Section of ACRL.

INFORMATION EXCHANGE

Susan Lemke will be moderating a one hour Information Exchange at Midwinter from 4:30 to 5:30 on Saturday January 9. Anyone interested in participating is welcome. Please notify Susan in advance should you have information but cannot attend. She can be contacted at Special Collections, National Defense University, Ft. McNair, Washington, D.C. 20319-6000 (202-475-1187).

NEW RBMS OFFICERS ELECTED; 1988 SLATE ANNOUNCED

ACRL has announced the results of the 1987 elections, with these RBMS members elected to the Executive Committee for terms beginning this past summer:

Vice Chair/Chair Elect: William L. Joyce (Princeton University); Secretary: Lisa Browar (New York Public Library); Member-at-Large (1987-1990 term): Dianne M. Chilmonczyk (Stanford University).

Other members of that Committee are:

Chair: Alice D. Schreyer (University of Delaware); Past Chair: Donald Farren (University of Maryland); Members-at-Large: 1985-1988 term - Susan Lemke (National Defense Library); 1986-1989 term - James N. Green (Library Company of Philadelphia).

The following members are nominees for the 1988 elections, which will be held next spring:

Vice Chair/Chair Elect: Sally Leach (Humanities Research Center); Peter Van Wingen (Library of Congress).

Member-at-Large 1987-1990 term: Rosemary Cullen (Brown University); Joe Springer (Mennonite Historical Society).

LOOKING FORWARD TO NEW ORLEANS

Planning for next summer's activities in New Orleans will be the focus of much attention in San Antonio. Ann Gwyn (Johns Hopkins), 1988 Preconference Planning Chair, has announced that the Preconference's topic will be "The Relationship of Special Collections Libraries with the Museum World." Its dates are July 5-8 and the location is the Royal Orleans Hotel in the French Quarter. Robert Martin (Louisiana State), Local Arrangements Chair, is working on the local flavor.

At the ALA Conference following, RBMS will be holding a one day program co-sponsored with GODORT and MAGERT on government documents as rare books. James Green is the Chair of the Program Planning Committee.

More information on the Preconference and Conference will be provided in the spring issue of this newsletter.

Rare Books & NOW OFFICIAL! Manuscripts Librarianship

After a two year probationary period, Rare Books and Manuscripts Librarianship was incorporated this summer as a permanent ACRL journal by the ACRL Publications Committee. Now four issues young, over the past year and a half RBML's biannual issues have provided a utilitarian and entertaining service to both librarians and aficionados in general. The most recent issue is representative: it includes articles on institutional collecting of 20th century non-literary works; appraising and accessioning the papers of Congresswoman Marjorie S. Holt; conservation decision-making in institutions; and the 1987 exhibition catalogue award winners. There is also an annotated bibliography of the standards and guidelines produced by RBMS. ACRL's enthusiastic response to the contents of RBML and the journal's ability to generate revenue through its advertisement campaign was a welcome one, indicating just how much vitality the RBMS Section as a whole contains. However: PLEASE NOTE: RBML does not come with membership in RBMS. YOU MUST SUBSCRIBE For just this purpose an order form is provided below.

Library Trends Summer 1987 issue is dedicated to "Recent Trends in Rare Book Librarianship." It is over 250 pages of informative essays by well-known figures in the field who treat such hot topics as conservation, technology, funding, and changing concepts of rarity.

The Abbey Newsletter's new address is 320 E. Center, Provo, UT 84601. Ellen McCrady remains editor.

LEAB AMERICAN BOOK PRICES CURRENT EXHIBITION AWARDS

The ALA/RBMS Exhibition Catalogue Awards program has received an $8,000 endowment from Katherine Kyes Leab and

Daniel J. Leab to maintain and support the awards program. The Leabs have long provided invaluable service to the rare books and manuscripts community as editors and publishers of American Book Prices Current and as creators of BAM-BAM (Bookline Alert! Missing Books and Manuscripts), the national database of stolen and missing books and manuscripts. They have once again outdone themselves, providing great encouragement for the continuance of the RBMS Awards program. For further information on the awards program contact: Sally Leach, Harry Ransom Humanities Research Center, PO Drawer 7219, Austin, TX 78713 (512-471-9115).

AMERICAN PRINTING HISTORY ASSOCIATION

APHA held its 12th annual program at Columbia University on September 26. The theme was "Government Printing in the Western Hemisphere", an issue of growing interest as indicated by this program and RBMS's upcoming ALA Program for July. Topics ranged from the history of government printing in Canada and Brazil to American philatelic history; the speakers were Norman Manchevsky, Sarah Jordan Miller, Laurence Hallewell, James M. Bruns, and Gay Walker.

APHA's annual meeting will be January 30, when the 1988 awards for distinguished contributions to the field of printing history will be presented. The recipients of the 1987 awards, for an individual and an institution respectively, were G. Thomas Tanselle of the Guggenheim Foundation and the American Antiquarian Society.

ESTC/NA

The 18th-Century Short-Title Catalog/North America has obtained funding from NEH for the reporting of the 18th century British holdings of the major libraries at Oxford and Cambridge Universities. The records will be sent to ESTC/NA at the University of California/Riverside and entered in RLIN's ESTC database. Work at the Bodleian and Balliol College libraries at Oxford and at Trinity College and University libraries at Cambridge has already been completed. NEH is also providing support for a canvass of the ESTC holdings at the Public Record Office, London.

In July, ESTC/NA and the William Andrews Clark Memorial Library in Los Angeles sponsored a day-long conference on scholarly uses of the ESTC database. The success of the program, which included both informal lectures and online demonstrations, has encouraged the ESTC staff to plan for more such conferences at other institutions.

IN WORCESTER, MASSACHUSETTS

A conference on teaching the history of the book was held at the American Antiquarian Society in Worcester, Massachusetts on June 12 and 13. Co-sponsored by the Society's Program in the History of the Book in American Culture and the Center for the Book at the Library of Congress, it consisted of presentations on the theoretical and practical aspects of such instruction and the actual availability of courses. The Antiquarian Society is publishing a number of the presentations and syllabi; to find out more about these write John Hench, AAS, 185 Salisbury St., Worcester, MA 01609.

The North American Imprints Program (NAIP) staff continues to input records for 17th & 18th century items from libraries around the country into the NAIP database. So far 14,413 records not held by the AAS have been entered; 58,207 additional locations have been added to already existing records.

FROM OVERSEAS

There are a number of active organizations akin to RBMS outside of the United States. Provided here are the names of three such groups which produce newsletters similar to this one; these serials include relevant articles, news of an international nature, and book reviews. This listing can be expanded in future newsletters should interest warrant it: please let me know what you think.

The Library Association/Rare Books Group (Miss J. Archibald, English Antiquarian Accessions, British Library, Great Russell St., London WC1B 3DG). 2 issues annually; £4.00 to subscribe.

Book Trade History Group (C/o Simon Eliot, Faculty of Arts, The Open University, Walton Hall, Milton Keynes MK7 AA). Three issues annually; £5.00 for individual subscriptions; £3.00 for an institution.

Gazette du Livre Médiéval (Gazette du livre médiéval, Editions CEMI, B.P. 254, F-75227, PARIS CEDEX 05) 2 issues annually; 60 French francs for payment in advance; 80 if billed with first issue. Payment in international check or postal money order only made out to "Editions CEMI."

Vincent Kinane (Dept. of Early Printed Books, The Library, Trinity College, Dublin 2, Ireland) writes:

An Irish middle-grade rare books' librarian seeks an exchange with an American counterpart for 6 months in Spring-Summer 1988. He hopes to gain experience in the computer cataloguing of early printed books. He will take his salary with him but envisages a swap of accomodation and car.

Further details can be had from Mr. Kinane or myself.
